GLOBAL GROUP

Shaping the African Narrative through Experiential Learning

Hilltop is redefining how the world engages with Africa. We design and deliver faculty-led programs, executive education, and experiential learning that move beyond observation to create measurable academic, professional, and institutional impact across the continent.

Who We Are

Hilltop is the specialized program partner for universities and organizations seeking substantive engagement across Africa. We design and deliver immersive academic programs, executive education, internships, and institutional partnerships, all built on authentic African leadership, deep local expertise, and operational precision.

We don't facilitate visits. We architect learning experiences that place participants inside Africa's professional ecosystems, economic networks, and institutional frameworks, ensuring every program is rigorous, well-governed, and contextually grounded.

Every program is powered by dedicated in-country leadership working in concert with continuous remote operational support, delivering consistent academic quality, proactive risk management, and exceptional participant care from pre-departure through post-program evaluation.
